

TO YOU, OLD VETERANS, THIS DAY IS DEDICATED

To you, young or middle-aged reader, this day of memorial means much. There is not one of you who will not, during some part of the day, be thrilled—just because that by being thrilled you are doing your part towards honoring the now old men, who shortly over fifty years ago left happy homes to defend the honor of the northland.

And to you, old battle-scarred veterans, it is useless to ask what it means to you. You who today will form a part of the line of march went out to die for your country. Through God's justice you were spared—and all of Portsmouth has been thanking God for this justice at least once a year.

And today all of Portsmouth again gives thanks and pays tribute to you who have been tried and found true.

Old veterans, this is YOUR DAY. In addition to it being a day of memorial, it is a day of thanksgiving—a day when we should thank God that with the countries around us rent with strife and bloodshed, that we are at peace and able to honor those who know what the terror of the battle-field holds forth.

And as you pass in line today, marching peacefully to martial airs, you, old men, remnants of the Grand Old Army, you have every right in the world to feel proud, for it is a day built especially for you.

KAISER'S NOTE FAILS TO SATISFY WILSON; WILL DEMAND A SETTLEMENT OF MAIN ISSUES

U. S. Papers Call Note Unsatisfactory

NEW YORK TIMES
The German reply is not responsive to our demands. It does not promise that "clear and full understanding" as to a grave situation which President Wilson in his note declared to be desirable. The manner in which Berlin receives our representations in regard to the sinking of the Lusitania cannot fail to create a most disagreeable impression in this country, which the note's outward form of courtesy will not remove.

NEW YORK WORLD
The German note in response to the American protest against submarine attacks upon merchantmen does not meet the issue. It is worse than evasive. It is insincere, even pettifoggian.

NEW YORK TRIBUNE
Germany's answer to our government's protest against the slaughter of its citizens, peacefully and lawfully going about their business on the high seas will not satisfy American opinion. Countless on the surface as Herr Von Jagow's commission is it does not strike the note which the people of this country hoped that it would strike.

NEW YORK PRESS
Berlin's answer to Wilson's note is friendly, gracious—and unsatisfactory. The point is made unmistakable in Mr. Wilson's note is that the Von Tirpitz admirably must stop slaughtering American citizens whether in the case of a Gullflight or a Lusitania, whether by pairs or by scores. The Berlin foreign office speaks of a probably misapprehension on the part of our government as to the real character of the Lusitania. There is none; there could be none.

NEW YORKER HEROLD
The reply of the German government shows conclusively that Germany is most anxious to live at peace with America. That she desires to be shown where she is in the wrong, but naturally will think fair-minded men will concede that with the vessel being carried on the navy list as an auxiliary cruiser the presumption is strong that "German" submarine officers thought her armed and ready to offer resistance.

NEW YORK HERALD
Germany has ignored the real issue presented by the American note of May 12. As was clearly set forth in that historical document the attitude of the United States is not based upon any one of the series of events but upon the principal involved in the method of warfare in which they were incidents. "The" United States stands today the champion

PRESIDENT FEELS GERMANY HAS EVADED POINTS, WILL DISPATCH ANOTHER NOTE

Washington, May 31.—President Wilson went for a long automobile ride early this morning after reading newspaper comment on the German note. He had not received the official text from the state department and as his day was broken by an engagement to speak at Memorial Day exercises in Arlington National Cemetery he will not begin a thorough study of the note before night.

An unusually large number of sight-seers were gathered in front of the White House when the president went out to his motor. There was a scattering of hand-clapping and the president bowed and smiled in reply.

Officials refused to discuss the note before the president had an opportunity to consider his reply. It was expected that the question will be discussed thoroughly at tomorrow's cabinet meeting and that an answer would be forwarded to Berlin with as little delay as possible.

TEXT OF GERMAN NOTE

The text of the German note was made public today.

The undersigned has the honor to submit to Ambassador Gerard the following answer to the communication of May 15 regarding the inquiry to American interests through German submarine warfare.

The Imperial government has subjected the communication of the American government to a thorough investigation. It enters into a frank and friendly way in clearing up a possible misunderstanding which may have arisen in the relation between the two governments through the events mentioned by the American government.

Regarding firstly the cases of the American steamers, Cushing and Gullflight. The American embassy has already been informed that the German government has no intention of submitting neutral ships in the war zone, which the guilty of no hostile acts, to attacks by a submarine or submarines or aviators. On the contrary, the German forces have repeatedly been instructed most specifically to avoid attacks on such ships.

Charge Abuse of Flags
If neutral ships in recent months have suffered through the German submarine warfare owing to mistakes in identification, it is a question only of quite isolated and exceptional cases, which can be attributed to the British government's abuse of flags, together with the suspicious or culpable behavior of the masters of the ships.

The German government in all cases in which it has been shown by its investigations, that a neutral ship, not itself at fault, was damaged by German submarines or aviators, has expressed regret over the unfortunate accidents and it justified by conditions has offered indemnification.

The cases of the Cushing and the Gullflight will be treated on the same principle. An investigation of both cases is in progress, the result of which will presently be communicated to the embassy. The investigation can, if necessary, be supplemented by an international call on the International Commission of Inquiry as provided by Article 3 of The Hague agreement of October 18, 1907.

When sinking the British steamer Falaba, the commander of the German submarine had the intention of allowing the passengers and crew a full opportunity for a safe escape. Only when the master did not obey the order to help by rocket signals did the German commander order the crew and passengers by signals and megaphone to leave the ship within ten minutes. He actually allowed them 23 minutes time and fired the torpedo only when suspicious craft were hastening to the assistance of the Falaba.

Regarding the loss of life by the sinking of the British passenger steamer Lusitania the German government has already expressed to the neutral governments concerned its keen regrets that citizens of their states lost their lives.

On this occasion the Imperial government, however, cannot escape the impression that certain important facts having a direct bearing on the sinking of the Lusitania may have escaped the attention of the American government.

In the interest of a clear and complete understanding which is the aim of both governments, the Imperial government considers it first necessary to convince itself that the information accessible to both governments about the facts of the case is complete and in accord.

The government of the United States proceeds on the assumption that the Lusitania could be regarded as an ordinary unarmed merchantman. The Imperial government allows itself, in this connection, to point out that the Lusitania was one of the largest and fastest British merchant ships, built with government funds as an auxiliary cruiser and carried expressly as such in the "navy list" issued by the British admiralty.

Equipped with Cannon
It is further known to the Imperial government from trustworthy sources that the Lusitania was equipped with a complete armament of 18 inch guns and 4 inch guns, and that she carried a large number of machine guns and other weapons.

The official text of the note from Germany had arrived and was before the president early today. Officials generally read it with profound disappointment for they pointed out, it endeavored to obscure and evade the main issue—the questions of humanity involved—and sought to interpose a technical argument on matters of law hitherto undisputed under the universally accepted laws of nations. Most important of all, it was noted, that no attention was given to the request of the United States for assurances that American lives would be safeguarded in the future.

The course of the United States government is expected to be shaped by the president before the day is over and will be discussed at tomorrow's cabinet meeting. Through Ambassador Gerard the president has known for several days of the disappointing character of the German note. What his action will be is unknown to any one but himself. If indeed he has formed definite conclusions.

From a previous knowledge of the president's feeling over the Lusitania disaster in which more than 100 Americans lost their lives, it is confidently believed in many quarters that he will order the dispatch of a second note to Berlin within 24 or 48 hours, answering Germany's request for the facts of the Lusitania's cargo and equipment with a re-statement of the circumstances as made clear in the first American note and an intimation that a prompt reply is expected. Reference, it is believed, will be made to the understanding of the American government vessel, the Nebraska, has been torpedoed without warning and urgent inquiry it is thought will be made to have effective measures taken immediately to prevent the further destruction of American lives and property.

Legal officers of the United States government say the American point of view on the legal questions involved has never been disputed in the past by Germany or any other nation of the world in any of the essential features. Analyzing the German re-

SUBMARINES SINK SIX SHIPS IN THREE DAYS

London, May 31.—German submarines have been unusually busy while the German foreign office was engaged in the preparation of its answer to the Washington note on the Lusitania incident. The last few days, it is pointed out in London, provided them with a heavy bag of big merchant ships. These include the steamer Ethiope 3,700 tons, and the Tullochmoor 3,500 tons, which were sunk by submarines Friday in the approaches to the English channel.

On Saturday the British steamer Ping Suey, belonging to the Red Line, was attacked twice by German undersea boats within the space of five hours, but she succeeded in escaping into Plymouth.

VILLA WILL BUILD SHOE FACTORY

St. Louis, Mo., May 31.—Three representatives of the Villa government of Mexico are here today to purchase machinery for a shoe factory which they said is to be built and maintained by Gen. Villa at his capital, Chihuahua.

The erection of a shoe factory has become necessary, one of the army said, because the Villa money has a purchasing power of only three cents on the dollar in the United States. A pair of three dollar shoes, he said, costs the Villa government $90 of Mexican money. The Mexicans said they had been authorized to spend $10,000 for shoe machinery.

LUSITANIA VICTIMS ARE BROUGHT IN

New York, May 31.—Five of the Lusitania's dead three men and two women were brought to New York today by the steamer Lapland from Liverpool.

The bodies were those of Mrs. Catherine Willy of Lake Forest, Ill., Miss Elizabeth Secombe of Boston, Geo. B. Copping of Toronto, W. H. Brown and a man, Lindsey, address not given. The Lapland brought 133 passengers.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA

Nervous dyspepsia is a disease of the nerves, not of the stomach. Indigestion one day and complete freedom from symptoms the next usually means nervous dyspepsia. If the patient is of a nervous or highly emotional temperament. The attacks occur at more or less regular intervals and are often brought on by nervous excitement. A sick feeling after eating, sometimes vomiting, a weak, shaky "lemon" feeling when the stomach is empty—these are the usual symptoms, but in the case of some highly nervous people the sight of food or the approach of meal time may cause vomiting.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially useful to sufferers from nervous dyspepsia as they not only build up the general physical condition but also act directly on the nerves, strengthening and revitalizing them. These pills, with proper regulation of the diet, afford the most certain and successful way in which nervous and functional dyspepsia can be treated.

A postal card request to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will bring a copy of a useful diet book and a pamphlet on nervous dyspepsia, both free of cost to you. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

WAR IS CURSE OF UNIVERSE SAYS PASTOR IN SERMON ON JINGOISM; "MOLLYCODDLES" IN THE CHURCH

In a sermon that attracted much attention at Bigelow church Sunday morning, Rev. A. R. Connell discussed jingoism. He severely scored war and from its lessons drew morals for the guidance of the christian church of today. He praised courage and self-sacrifice and said the church is in need of brave men and not mollycoddles.

A synopsis of the sermon follows:

Text, Phil. 2:3, "Let nothing be done through strife and vain glory."

From the text we understand that God is not pleased with those things or results that come about through strife, and that there is a phase of glorying that is vain.

The term "glory" is often misapplied, for instance, I heard a man say of another, "he was gloriously drunk" and again, at an automobile race, where two men were killed, when one man said to another, "well, this is certainly an exciting affair." The other replied, "it is glorious." To some such things may appear after that fashion, but to the minds of most people the expression, when used in this sense, to say the least, is decidedly a misnomer. And I believe that we are coming more and more to the place where we are prone to arrive at the same conclusion as regards the so-called glories of war. Not that for a single instant do we wish to in any wise minimize the brave deeds of the men who have suffered in behalf of a meritorious cause, or detract one iota of credit from those to whom honor is due.

But we do feel called upon to denounce in no uncertain manner or language that form of vain-glorying, popularly known as "jingoism."

The soldier class has ever been a representative one, playing a most conspicuous and important part in the history of the world. Through him kings have been made and unmade, dynasties have arisen and fallen, nations have been established and overthrown and the maps of the world have undergone constant changes. No other class of biography is so thrilling, and the greatest deeds of heroism recounted upon the pages of history have been performed upon the fields of battle. The great mills out of which heroes have been ground were thrust, Nishtar, Ostend, Aere, Troy, Thermopylae, Jemni, God Bridge, Marunga, Ansterlitz, Bunker Hill, Lexington, Bull Run, Fair Oaks, Antietam, Shiloh, Chickamauga and Gettysburg. It is notable representatives have ever been accorded the highest place in art, sculpture and literature, and we do well to set apart one day of the year in which to pay our tributes of respect and loving remembrance to those who have fought our country's battles.

No Justification For War Now

However, I sincerely hope that none, as a result of the observance of such occasions, and commemoration of our national victories, will be led to think of war as a condition to be desired, or come to regard it in any favorable light whatever. Much less become so fired by the jingoistic spirit of the cruel game that they like Alexander will be moved to tears because they see no immediate prospects of future conquest. In olden times there may have been some justification for war, but not now. A careful survey of the facts makes us doubt whether it is ever entirely excusable. And one thing is assured, viz. one of the contending sides is always in the wrong.

Just look at its cost from a monetary standpoint. Time and space will not suffice for us to go very far back in history, but just let us cite a few concrete examples by way of illustration.

Resinol Soap

Pimples and blackheads disappear, red, rough, blotchy complexions usually become clean, clear and velvety, and hair health and beauty are aided by the regular use of Resinol Soap. It does its work easily, quickly and at little cost even when other methods fail.

Napoleon's army in its march to Moscow, burned every house for one hundred and fifty miles. Our revolution cost England six hundred and eighty million dollars, to say nothing of what it cost the Colonies. The wars growing out of the French Revolution cost England alone three thousand millions. From 1800 to 1820 Christendom paid out fifteen thousand million dollars for the miserable privilege of killing each other.

We complain about taxes, and find fault with the administration, but the greatest expense devouring our revenues and fattening itself upon the very sweat and blood of the nation is in connection with war. Providing and maintaining horses, wagons, cannon, shot and shell, arms and accoutrements, ships, fortresses, hospitals, ambulances, grave trenches and pensions.

War Costs An Enormous Sum

Edmund Burke estimated that the nations of the world had expended not less than one hundred and thirty-five thousand million dollars in war, and his figuring was done before this country had expended an additional three thousand million in a civil war, to say nothing of the other thousand millions expended in the Spanish-American war, the English-South African war, the Japanese-Russian war and the fearful struggle now convulsing practically the whole of Europe at the almost incalculable cost of two million dollars an hour, forty-eight millions a day, three hundred and thirty-six millions a week or more than ten thousand million dollars per month.

Sacrifice Of Human Life Is Terrible

But what does all this waste of treasure, stupendous though it be, amount to as compared with the horrible sacrifice of human life. In one battle under Julius Caesar, four hundred thousand fell. Under Nereus, during a single campaign, five million lives were snuffed out. Under Chungking Chan at Harat, one million, six hundred thousand slain. At Nishtar, one million, seven hundred and fifty-seven thousand fell. At the siege of Ostend, one hundred and twenty thousand, at Aere, three hundred thousand, at the siege of Troy, one million, eight hundred and sixteen thousand. The far larger and two African wars cost one hundred and eight million. While the wars against the Turks and Saracenes cost one hundred and eighty million lives.

Only three hundred years have elapsed since the first settlement upon our shores, but in that time those who have gone down by sabre, shell, bullet and bayonet have run up into millions.

Thirty-five times the world's present population have fallen in battle.

Oh, the folly of the devastation! Oh, the ghastliness of the sacrifice! Oh, the horrors of the British game! Simply for this that a people "By the gleam of their steel, And the shock of their lead, Might prove to their foe, That they meant what they said," while their helpless widowhood and orphanage, "Died down in the ditches, Wild howling for bread."

Civil War Is No Exception

Our own Civil War was no exception. Oh, what a time it was, as some of you only too well remember. When fathers and mothers gave up their sons, never expecting to see them again, and never did see them again, until they came back maimed, crushed and dead.

Four years of blood. Four years of hostilities. Four years of ghastliness. Four years of grave digging. Four years of funerals, coffins, shrouds, hearse and dirges. Mourning! Mourning! Mourning! Hell let loose in earth! Four years of want looking out from an empty fire grate, and kneeling hunger in an empty bread tray. Every face a picture of ruin. Four years of agony on both sides of the Mason-Dixon line that gave birth to a memory that is spelled with curses, that echoes with woe, that weeps with ruin and sweats with the death agony of despair.

War The Champion Curse Of The Universe

War is the champion curse of the universe. And may Almighty God, with the hottest bolt of His indignation, strike it down forever and forever. Impison it in the deepest dungeon of the eternal penitentiary, holding it in with all the metal ever forged into cannon or moulded into howitzer. Clave it with all the sabres that ever flashed on field of carnage. Burn it with all the conflagration of homes it has destroyed. And wring its soul with all the pangs it has ever caused. Deeper down let it fall, and in fiercer flames let it burn, till it has gathered into its foul heart, all the suffering of eternity, as well as time. In the name of the millions of graves of its victims, I curse it!

However, we are not to be pessimistic to the extent of closing our eyes to the fact that there has been results that were to be desired. I trust that we are not of those who declare, "No good thing can come out of Nazareth." The liberty of Switzerland, the Independence of the United States and the abolition of slavery were all desirable. The end to be gained was good, but the means necessary to that end is to be deplored. We are all, North and South, glad that slavery was put down and out, but it is a burning shame and lasting disgrace that this could not have been done without the sacrifice of a million of lives and many millions of treasure.

How thankful we ought to be for the fact that though a great portion of the world is even now warring the most terrible war that has ever gripped the nations, we are enjoying the blessings of peace and good will. May God hasten the time when the wings of the angel of peace shall overshadow these nations as he settles down, evermore to brood undisturbed over the whole of Christendom.

TRIBUTE PAID DEPARTED SOLDIER AND SAILOR HEROES

REV. ALBERT MARTING DELIVERS A SPLENDID MEMORIAL SERMON

Solemn and deeply impressive was the Memorial Sunday service at the Fourth Street Methodist church Sunday afternoon, attended by the members of Bailey Post, G. A. R., local patriotic societies, and a large number of citizens. Fitting reverence was paid the memories of the departed soldier and sailor heroes, who fought under the Stars and Stripes for the preservation of the Union.

Members of Bailey Post assembled at their headquarters on Gallia street, near Findlay, about 1:30 o'clock, and marched in a body to the church behind the Drum and Bugle Corps. Behind the veterans marched the members of the United Spanish War Veterans and the Sons of Veterans.

Ladies of the Women's Relief Corps and the auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans assembled at the church entrance, and received the marchers with open ranks. The Drum and Bugle Corps continued to play until all the societies had passed into the church.

Reservations were made for the different organizations participating in the service in the center aisles of the church, with the members of the G. A. R. in front pews. They stood with covered heads until all societies were in their places, after which Commander Miltstead gave the order, "Uncover and take seats."

Assembly Call Opens Impressive Services

The Assembly Bugle Call was sounded, and the meeting was formally opened. W. J. Williams, the adjutant of the Post, read General John A. Logan's Memorial Day Order, which was followed by the singing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," with the audience joining in the chorus.

Commander Crend S. Miltstead read the famous Gettysburg address of President Abraham Lincoln. A solemn feature of the service was the saluting of the dead by the surviving comrades, carried out in accordance with the G. A. R. ritual.

Special singing also characterized the service, the Fourth Street M. E. church quartet leading in the singing of the old war songs of the "Boys in Blue," including "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," "Just Before the Battle, Mother," "Samo Sweet Day, Bye and Bye," "Who Will Tell the Story When the Boys Are Gone," and others. The members thought at first only of preserving the Union, which the South would destroy. But failure lashed conscience until men said the black man must be free. From that day the tide turned; God was blessing our arms. You staid to the finish. You kept the trust the nation and God placed in you. You won the day for liberty and brotherhood. It is now our privilege and joy once more to give you the laurel wreath of victory, a nation and a world's gratitude and thanks.

Memorial Dedicated To The Living and Dead

Our memorial is for those then especially who answered the summons on the battle field, counting not their lives dear, and for those as well who have been "mustered out" in the passing years. Once again with uncovered head we would lay the wreath of a nation's gratitude upon their graves.

But our nation has a greater lesson to learn than that of gratitude, though she has learned that poorly enough. The world is traveling fast these days. We have lived hard since May, 1914. New ideals are being kindled. We see beyond the blessing that our just wars have wrought, that war is ever wrong to man and hateful to God. While cherishing none the less the heroism of the men who won our battles for us we look today for heroes of peace as well, men who will renounce self to the advancement of a noble cause. We still have great battles to fight, though God grant, without blood shed. We need the hero in the factory and mill, the heroine in the home. We call for men who by ballot and life shall rally to free men and women who suffer under that curse of the world of today, drink. We cry for heroes who will hold up before the world the ideal of peace and arbitration in place of war. And I implore you today as you honor the memory of the dead and salute the living hero of the past, that you rally to the great causes of humanity and our nation, that urge you and me to the colors.

Forget Not To Fight The Battle of God

And then, heroes young and heroes old, heroes of yesterday and heroes of tomorrow, forget not to fight the battle of God. Rally round His cause by coming to Jesus Christ, the Savior of men. Fight His fight well, finish the course that leads to Him, keep the faith in the Christ He implants in your life; keep your trust with God. And then some day not alone the world but God will give to you and me the wreath of His divine approval, the crown of righteousness, which is mine and yours through faith in the righteous Christ. The world will have called you heroes, but God will have called you His own.

My old army drum hangs upon my wall, Long silent its rattling, loud-clattering call; No more it salutes, at the break of the day, The fast fading stars with its loud reveille.

Where, where are the boys who awoke at its beat, Aroused from their slumbers, and sprang to their feet, At the orderly's call each answering his name, Enrolled now forever on our roster of fame?

Gone, gone are the boys—their bayonets gleam No more on the banks of the Rapidan stream; Their hives and camp, their cheers in the fray, Like a dream, have they passed and all vanished away.

Yet come, my old drum, from your peg on the wall, We'll beat once again each old army call; I'll swear you up well, and strap you down tight, And call the boys in yet once more for tonight.

Then it's tap-tap-tap, and its flim-flam, flum, And from village and farmland and city they come; Beat, beat, my old drum, yet once again beat, For the living, "The Assembly," for the dead, "The Retreat."

Aye for the dead! for the brave boys that fell When the air was shattered by hissing—hot shell, For the dead that die not, and never can die While the flag that defended floats proudly on high.

Beat, beat for the living, who surrendered for years, Have met once again with their laughter and tears; Around our campfire with flames dancing bright, Let the boys tell again of the march and the fight.

With their battle-torn flags 'neath the wide-spreading arch, Shoulder to shoulder let them once again march, While a myriad onlooker applaud as they gaze At the thousands of veterans of long ago days.

Yet once again beat, my old army drum, With you tap-tap-tap, and flim-flam-flum; Our day is well past and the shadows they fall, Where the stars are all shining, the bugles they blow; They are calling us, comrades, to me and to you—Soon my old drum you'll beat a final "Tattoo."

Maxwell Wins Test Over 40 Cars

Result of the great Yale University Sheffield Scientific School Test. Of the forty automobiles tested at the famous Sheffield Scientific School laboratory the Maxwell stands first in economy of Gasoline consumption.

The Beaver Motor Car Company,

New Haven, Conn.

Gentlemen:—
I am enclosing report of test of your Maxwell automobile recently made in our laboratory.
I should like to add the following comments:

- 1. RELIABILITY OF TEST.
A preliminary test was made on April 19th, using a new car which was rather stiff. The showing was so good that we decided to make a second test. This was made on April 30th, using same car. On this test, the car showed less stiffness and the performance was better than on the first car. The second test was supervised by our most careful experts, and the results, I believe to be perfectly reliable.
- 2. MILEAGE.
The efficiency of the Maxwell automobile as indicated by the number of miles on a level road, is exceptionally high. This mileage record is better than that of any one of forty automobiles tested in our laboratory to date.
- 3. MOTOR PERFORMANCE.
The efficiency of the motor and carburetor as indicated by the pounds of gasoline used per hour per horse-power at rear tires, is exceedingly good, and indicates very perfect carburetor action over the whole range of speed and load. This record like that on mileage per gallon, is the best one that we have had.

Very truly yours,
E. H. Lockwood
ASSISTANT PROFESSOR MECHANICAL ENGINEERING.

A Simple Constipation Remedy—Try It

For quick, positive relief from constipation, sour stomach, biliousness, inactive liver, bad breath, and all the ills that follow them, nothing as yet has been found to quite equal that old, time-tried compound of many apple root, aloes and jalap.

Recognized as one of the standard remedies, physicians daily prescribe it, many preferring it to all others, and especially calomel. They like it because, being purely vegetable, it's not nearly as harsh as calomel; it never grips; it's never followed by any of the dangerous after-effects that so often result from the use of calomel.

This standard remedy, ready-prepared, may now be had under the name of Santalol Laxative Tablets. Be sure you get the original Santalol Laxative, put up in the box that has the picture of the soldier on it. In this form it is much more convenient and easier to take than in the old-fashioned powder or capsule form—cheaper, too. A 10c box of Santalols should last one several weeks. A physician's sample package (4 doses) free to any one answering this advertisement. The Santalol Remedies Co., 801 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.

THE TONGUES OF MEN.

There are something like four thousand different languages spoken by the sons of men. To every language there is a variation of an average of twenty-five dialects.

In range languages vary even more than they do in dialects. In some tongues there are as many as hundred thousand words, while others do not run above fifteen or twenty. Possibly more people speak Chinese than any other one language, but where something like accuracy prevails in the reckoning more—one hundred and fifty millions—speak English. German comes next with approximately a round hundred million, while seventy million use Russian, fifty millions French and forty millions Spanish. Next to English Spanish is the fastest growing language. This is owing to two reasons, the South and Central American countries, where Spanish is spoken, are receiving a large number of immigrants and these people take up the native speech, and so great is the trade expansion in this same region that schools all over the world are teaching Spanish in order that proper equipment may be had to enter the strife and rivalry for that trade.

In it is peculiar, in this connection, that the United States is the only nation where substantially all the citizens speak the same language, with scarce any corruption or variation. From San Francisco to Boston, from Chicago to El Paso, the speech is practically pure English. It isn't so in Great Britain, Germany, France, Austria, Italy, Spain, Brazil or Argentina. In none of these countries can you travel a hundred miles without experiencing more or less "confusion of tongues", but here you can travel thousands in any direction and here nothing but good old "United States" talk, just a bit of brogue, only enough to save it from monotony, but the language of one country and her sons, born or adopted.

OUR HYMNS IN JAPANESE.

One of our esteemed contemporaries finds that, in a Japanese translation of the gospel hymn, "Rock of Ages, Cleft for Me," the literal translation runs, "Very Old Rock, Split for My Benefit."

A western contemporary says it is really appalling to contemplate the form in which some of the other hymns must appear after being subjected to the process of translation into an ungracious language. It is easy to perceive that "Throw Out the Life-line, a Brother to Save," must become, "Lay Out Very Strong Cord Made of Hemp, the Honorable Other Son of Your Venerable Parents to Rescue," and that "Hold the Fort," must become "Rush Forward Reserve Forces to Repulse Attack of Contemptible Enemy Upon Position Occupied by Our Brave Soldiers." Other illustrations might be applied, but we desist.

In the sanctimonious East Liverpool Tribune we find this: "The meanest skunk in the world is the fellow who goes around behind your back circulating stories, which he knows are false. We believe that a court should reward, instead of fine, the detractor who gives his detractor a beating. True enough, brother, true enough, but what are they saying about you?"

We haven't heard any "hollering" about loaning money to the belligerents. That's because any of them can borrow of us and all have.

You can't keep genius from bursting bounds. Perley A. Baker, a strictly Buckeye product, says Joe Mann shall never be president. And why forsooth? Because Joe Mann voted his own views and not the order of Perley Baker's association.

Turning to the redoubtable Theodore Roosevelt as authority that tennis is not a pastime for mollycoddlers, Youngstown has erected a number of courts on which the game may be played. They are popular and the clamor is for more. What next?

Up to the beginning of the late unpleasantness over three Belgium was still doing a thriving business selling cannon from the battlefield of Waterloo, guaranteed to be manufactured from any one of her numerous foundries. Just think what a prospect opens up before her now with the whole country a battlefield.

IN MEMORIAM.

AND IT OUGHT NOT TO BE.

Reports to the state fire marshal's office show that in many examinations Portsmouth led all the towns of the state in the number of some down and repair order, that is all excepting Cincinnati, and there, owing to the difference in size there can be no reasonable comparison, though as a matter of fact in total number the Peerless pressed right on the heels of the Queen City.

In towns of her size, such as Newark, Lima, Zanesville and others Portsmouth leads at least a proportion of three to one. There is a partial explanation in this in the fact that two years ago water covered all that portion of the town under the hill and caused a partial wreckage of many small buildings, but this by no means totally accounts for the overwhelmingly creditable lead Portsmouth has taken. The humiliating truth is that in all her history scant attention has been paid by the town in observing the most ordinary rules of safety and order in building construction and there has been even scantier effort, or effect, in enforcing regulations, if any such thing can be said to exist. One thing that makes the situation here worse than the average, is that the lots are unusually small and buildings of all sorts set more closely together, thus a small hazard in itself is made to assume undue proportions. This condition is, however, not near so general in the newer sections, indeed, so great is the improvement there and freedom from bad conditions generally that the inspector gave special mention and praise to them.

There isn't any better time, however, to clean up and straighten up than right now. The inspectors will be back next month to find out to what degree their orders have been complied with and it is to be hoped that where they are based on reason and sound judgment property owners will diligently carry them out. Advertising of the kind the work of the inspectors has given her is neither creditable to us as citizens, nor profitable to the fame of the town.

A contemporary says the Czar of Russia has no problems to settle and no living to earn. That is quite comical in its misconception. The ruler of some two hundred million people and a hundred different races must have a few trying matters presented to him, while if he has no living to make, it is a well known fact that the Czar has been a pretty busy man keeping alive.

As has been observed upon like occasions, the best thing the assembly did was to adjourn. Only this time the motion carries without a dissenting vote.

What we are afraid of is that it has rained so much there'll be no water left in a little while.

A group of Chinese boys were discussing the relative merits of two bill boards—one advertising Carnation Milk, the other Bull Durham. One of the boys was explaining the signs to the others, so:

Green First—Always
An Irishman who was too old for active work was offered the position of crossing tender at a small railroad station. He looked dubious as the duties of the office were explained to him and the meaning of the various flags was clearly stated.

"In the case of danger with a train coming, of course, you wave the red flag," and his friend preceded with his explanation. A hard old hand grasped his arm.
"Man, dear, I'll never do," said Patrick, shaking his head solemnly. "I could never trust myself to remember to wave a red flag when there was a green was handy."

To Serve Subpoenas
Sheriff Smith left Sunday morning for Ashland, Ky., to serve subpoenas on witnesses to appear before the grand jury next week.

The important question of who will be the second Democratic member of the board of elections from Scioto county seems to have the state secretary's office stumped completely.

New York, May 31.—Herewith is a correct imitation of a New York subway guard calling any station between Bowling Green and the upper end of the line. It goes like this:
"Thenex Bla Bla Bla."
So it is no wonder that Joseph Johnson, of the Public Service Transit Bureau, is urging a school to train the tongues of subway and elevated guards and overcome the mixed vernaculars and brogues which make it impossible for passengers to recognize the names of their stations.

Highbrowish gentlemen who write to newspapers, on every subject, declare it will be impossible to shake off native dialects. They point to Carlyle's marked burr. Burke had a brogue. Samuel Johnson gave certain words a twist that puzzled Boswell and the late King Edward spoke English with a German accent, so why it is argued, expect so much of a subway guard?

The ripper crimes in Third avenue have transformed that congested, thriving thoroughfare into a dull, silent street of fear. Hundreds of children were constantly at play in the neighborhood where Leonard Cohen, aged five, and Charles Murray, aged four, were slashed to death. Mothers keep their children literally at their apron strings and the street merchants talk in whispers. They are superstitious on Third avenue. Scientists declare that the ripper is not insane, but is merely constitutionally inferior and may be extremely intelligent. The crimes indicate degeneracy of the worst type, almost cannibalistic in nature and the ripper is believed to have been a psychopath all his life. Incidentally the police have learned that in the crowded tenement districts there are thousands of persons with sex perversions and one crime arouses them and inspires similar deeds.

John J. McGraw, who has developed into one of the foremost chronic Gotham grouches, was seated in the grand stand the other day talking to Max Fleishmann, the Cincinnati sportsman. "I should say he hasn't," snapped McGraw. "His ought to have a crepe band on his hat. His brains died several years ago."

Victoriano Huerta, you remember Vie, old Vie the Dictator, has decided to settle down here to a gentlemanly, leisurely life on Long Island. New York has become the abiding place of nearly all of the Mexican exiles and it is presumed that they will have a fine time this summer on the Huerta porch discussing the good old days that have gone.
More than 400 former officers of the Mexican army are now in New York and they are constantly at Huerta's heels ready to do his bidding. It is believed that Huerta will be welcomed on Long Island as long as he doesn't try to hatch any conspiracies.

Boys Kaufman: "The District, in fact, campaigns annually against the fly, the principal purpose of the crusades being to furnish this brave newspaper with copy for Fearless Editorials. This paper's attitude on the fly is, and always has been uncompromising. "It says boldly that the fly is a menace, and is willing to defend all the libel suits that come its way as a result of this unqualified statement. On all topics except the fly this newspaper is unalterably neutral."

SOMETHING that he read that morning sent the Man-with-the-Grouch chuckling for the rest of the day and well into the night. Hinks says he is chuckling still and that the condition is likely to become chronic.

"What really amuses me," said the Man-with-the-Grouch, "is the unexpectedness of it."

"Of what?" asked Hinks.
"Of a modern poet venturing to his commercial value," said the Man-with-the-Grouch. "Here's this man E. P. Pond, an American poet living in London. He dares to reckon the artist and the poet as a commercial matter."

"That notion is profoundly foolish which does not get the maximum of best work out of its artists, according to poet

"I shall not go into decimals," said Pound. "When there was talk of selling Holbein's Death of Milton to an American, England bought the picture for $250,000. "People go where there are good works of art. Pictures and sculpture and architecture pay. Even literature and poetry pay, for where there is enough intelligence to produce and maintain good writing, there society is pleasant and the real estate values increase. Mr. E. M. Hoffer has said that the difference between London and other places is that 'No one lives in London merely for the sake of making money enough to live somewhere else.' 'The real estate values even in Newark, N. J., would go up if Newark were capable of producing art, literature or the drama. NEW BOSTON

Deputy Marshals Ike Wells and Ray Brown made arrests every time they turned around Saturday evening. Between seven o'clock and twelve o'clock seven were behind the bars. Clarence Nelson, 17, who, it is alleged, left town Wednesday evening with a horse and buggy belonging to Ira Penner, liveryman, came back to the village Saturday after a several days' absence and was arrested by Officer Wells. A horse stealing charge is against him. Will Minor, who says he turned the horse over to Nelson Wednesday evening was released from custody Saturday afternoon after being in jail since Thursday morning.

Two foreigners, who were over-loaded and were having a "jolly good time," were arrested on drunk and disorderly charges. Two men and a woman were waiting on a car at Emmert's stop and their disorderly actions attracted the attention of Mayor Davis who instructed Grant Dixon and Pole Hall to arrest the trio. In the jail yard the woman put on her fighting legs and hit Hall in the face and tried to pull his tie off. Once locked up they refused to give their names. A billbook taken from one of the men bore the name "Joe Kitchen." One of the men had nearly twenty-five cartridges but no gun.

Sunday morning the woman was released when she put up $2 she had in her shoe as bond for her appearance Tuesday. She gave her name as Lydia Kitchen. One of the men put up $5 as bond and signed his name G. J. Kieck. The other man remains in with the two foreigners and young Nelson. About midnight Charles Jones was found "floating about without a rudder" and was locked up on a drunk and disorderly charge. He gave $5 bond Sunday.

Mrs. Doll Smith of Gallia pike who recently moved here from Oak Hill had the misfortune to fall Saturday evening when climbing down the steps at the O. D. Chinn butcher shop. She sprained one of her ankles.

Three foreigners were arrested on charges of gambling Sunday evening. A marked deck of poker cards were confiscated by the officers. The renter of the house put up $15 and the other two $5 each as bonds for their appearance Tuesday.

Nearly every grocery in the village closed at nine o'clock Monday morning to allow the clerks to enjoy the holiday. The majority of the other business places remain open.

A feature of the last day of school Friday June 11 will be a ball game on Peebles' diamond between the boys and girls of the eighth grade.

Deputy Marshal Ray Brown has completed a cellar at his home on Harrisonville pike and is adding a front porch.

The open manholes or sewers in Stewartsville are dangerous and detrimental to public safety on account of the number of children in that part of the village.

Council will meet in called session Wednesday evening to pass the budget ordinance.

Meen Allen was sworn in by Mayor Davis Sunday as an officer to serve as special officer at the York and Illinois cafe Monday.

Is $100 a year and commission on fines enough pay for the mayor of the village? Mayor J. S. Davis does not think so and he is going to ask council in a few weeks to increase the salary of the mayor from $100 to $600 a year with commission. A salary of $600 and commission would allow a man to devote all of his time to the job which should be done now but cannot be done with the meager salary of only $100 a year and $2.20 on every fine.

T. W. Brown father of Deputy Marshal Ray Brown is building a seven room house on his farm in Madison township near Stockdale. The new dwelling is built hungalow style. He was in the village buying lumber several days ago.

The Cubs were taken to Waits Station in one of Oscar Kellner's transfer wagons Sunday instead of an auto truck. The Cubs and Waits Station teams played five innings when the game was called on account of wet grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miliken and son and daughter were the Sunday guests of Dr. and Mrs. Chas. Dawson of Wheelersburg. Cecil Snyder of Robinson avenue was the Saturday guest of friends. He formerly lived on Gallia pike.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wrenn of East Grace street are visiting her parents in Nelsonville, O.

Mrs. J. Morgan of East Grace street spent Saturday in Lucasville.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harr are spending the day with relatives at Otway.

Mrs. Benjamin Yeley of Waits Station arrived Saturday to spend a few days with her daughters in the village.

MISSING THE RACES

George Densmore, showworker of 1101 Ninth street, returned home Sunday from Cincinnati. He left Friday for Indianapolis to see the automobile races but on reaching the Queen City learned the race course was covered with several feet of water. A special train was ready to leave for Indianapolis but the trip was called off when it was posted that it was not known just when the races would be run. A large number of motorists who expected to make the trip in their cars turned back from Cincinnati Sunday. Densmore expects to receive a new automobile in a few weeks.

Dr. J. W. Hutchens of Sciotoville, was called to Cincinnati Sunday morning by a telegram saying his father, A. C. Hutchens, is seriously ill. Dr. Harry Hutchens, brother of Dr. J. W. Rev. Bridwell Delivers Strong Message To N. B. Graduates

The baccalaureate service for the New Boston High School graduates was held in the Baptist church on Sunday night.

An interesting feature of the service was the special music rendered by the Aeolian Quartet of Portsmouth.

The building was crowded and quite a number were compelled to stand. The sermon by Rev. M. H. Bridwell was full of good advice not only to the graduates, but to all the young people. In substance, Rev. Bridwell said:

Dear young friends, I count it an honor to have the privilege of addressing you tonight and as I look into your faces I am aware of the responsibility that this opportunity brings with it; for the advice given to young lives just launching out on higher educational, professional or commercial activities, is fraught with great importance. You have come to what might be termed a turn in life's road and you may have been looking forward to this as a point of completion; but your work has only just begun. This world with all its needs is calling young men and women to higher educational heights than it is possible for them to reach in our public schools.

No Success Is Assured Without Some Ambition

I. Set your ideals high. The young man or woman who has no ideal usually has no ambition, and he or she who has no ambition will never make a success of anything. If we have the ambition then our ideals will grow as our knowledge of the world and its needs increases.

II. A forward look is necessary to success. Here the speaker gave a concrete illustration. A young man who was willing to do more than he was paid for simply because he was inspired by a forward look and the hope of success in the future.

III. Determination and stick-to-itiveness are two characteristics essential to success. There are those who start out with high ideals, but the road becomes rough and steep. So much hard work to be done. So much study and so little pay, that they become discouraged, fall by the wayside and lose sight of their ideals. This requires grit and determination and stick-to-itiveness to a greater degree than ever before.

No Matter How Small Use Your Opportunities

IV. Make use of your opportunities. The youth of today have the facilities and opportunities for moulding their lives into something of greater usefulness than did our fathers. You can, I was going to say, be anything you make up your minds to be.

Ask what you will and it shall be given unto you as almost as true of nature and of providence as it is of grace. The condition of receiving in earnest consecrated effort. The writer of Proverbs says: "The sluggard will not plow by reason of the cold, therefore shall he beg in the harvest and have nothing."

Rather disagreeable plowing in the cold, but there are disagreeable things in every profession. When you find a disagreeable task enter into it with zest and the determination to do it as well as you can and the disagreeable things about it will in a large measure fade away.

Dear young friends, you are living in the plowing time, the harvest is months ahead. It would be easy to sit by the fire and do nothing. It is always easier to live an ignoble and useless life than to live a life of earnest consecrated effort; but if we are going to be anything that is worth while we must not attempt to slide through the easiest way possible, but to work our way through every difficulty.

Let No Such Word As Can't Enter Your Vocabulary

Never say it can't be done. At this point the speaker quoted the following poem by Edgar A. Guest:

Somebody said that it couldn't be done

But he buckled right in with the trace of a grin

On his face. If he worried, he hid it.

And started to sing as he tackled the thing

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

Somebody scoffed, "Oh you can't do that—"

At least nobody ever has done it.

But he took off his coat and he took off his hat

And the first thing we knew he'd begun it.

With a lift of his chin and a bit of a grin

Without any doubting or quailing

He started to sing as he tackled the thing

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

That couldn't

SOLDIERS PAY HONOR TO THEIR DEAD WHILE CITY HONORS LIVING MEMBERS OF G. A. R.

PARADE TO CEMETERY VIEWED BY THOUSANDS; FINE ADDRESS MADE

Once again Portsmouth paused today in its forward march of progress to do honor to the memory of the brave heroes who fought on the bloody battle fields of the wars of 1861-1865 and 1898.

Again the muffled drum beats called in marching army the survivors of those battles, the ranks of whom are rapidly thinning each succeeding year. Only a remnant of the brave heroes who went from Portsmouth to defend the Union cause were left today to share the plaudits of a grateful republic.

Gray haired men, bent with years, recalled today the days a half century or so ago when they answered their country's call to arms, and walked with head and shoulders erect and sturdy to the silent bivouac of their comrades who rest in an eternal sleep.

An appreciative and grateful public joined with them in laying wreaths of flowers upon the graves of them for whom the nation's tears have sounded. From the speaker's stand at Greenlawn cemetery went up an eloquent eulogy to help swell the mighty chorus of praise for the nation's heroes that issued forth from every city, village and hamlet, in this favored land of freedom today.

Again was instilled that noble sentiment which springs from the simple annual pilgrimage of the surviving veterans to the graves of their departed comrades, a sentiment the like of which the most potentations of human mind can not produce.

Admiration For Nations' Heroes

Hundreds who viewed it felt that renewed veneration for those gallant heroes who willingly sacrificed their lives and future prospects to perpetuate the Union. In many hearts it prompted a more solemn dedication to the principles which they so nobly espoused. Local patriotic societies and national organizations joined with the members of Bailey Post, G. A. R., in commemorating the spirit of Memorial Day. Buildings and residences all along the line of march flouted the folds of old glory as the Union soldiers of fifty years ago passed in solemn review.

All day Sunday, school children carried bouquets of fresh flowers to the Security bank building, which today were reverently placed upon the graves of the departed heroes in Greenlawn.

The earlier hours of the day were given over in observance of the ceremonies for which it has been set aside as a national holiday. The spirit of patriotism and love of country was in the air, and was heightened as the procession moved toward the cemetery. Everywhere the national colors were conspicuously displayed.

Assembled On Gallia Street

As early as eight o'clock the vanguard of the procession started to assemble on Gallia street. Shortly after nine o'clock Grand Marshal Crend S. Milstead, Commander of Bailey Post, gave the order to move.

At the head of the procession marched the city police force on foot, headed by Chief W. T. McPartey and Captain Grant Cooper. Behind them rode the grand marshal and his staff, each mounted.

Heading the first division marched the Drum and Bugle Corps of Vienna Camp, Sons of Veterans, who awakened the martial spirit with the old strains that carried the Union army to many victories on the battle fields of the South.

Behind them marched the members of Jacob Smith Camp, United Spanish-American War Veterans.

Then followed the Bigelow M. E. brass band, with the members of Vienna Camp, Sons of Veterans, and the Boy Scouts in the rear.

The Lewis Brass band marched at the head of the next division, composed entirely of automobiles. In the first cars rode the members of Bailey Post, G. A. R., and all ex-soldiers, sailors and marines, and the members of the Women's Relief Corps.

City officials in automobiles followed behind, while the rear of the procession was composed of citizens in automobiles and carriages. Many followed on foot and participated in the exercises at the cemetery.

The fire department with most of its equipment formed at Fifth and Chillicothe streets and fell in at the extreme rear of the parade.

The line of march took the parade out Chillicothe street to Ninth, where the marching columns entered Tracy park and marched with uncovered heads past the Soldiers' Monument, erected in honor of the young men of Scioto county who responded to the country's call in the Civil War.

Returning to Ninth and Gay streets the parade continued east on Ninth street to Offshore, and north on Offshore to the cemetery. Members of G. A. R. rode in Autos.

Automobiles carrying the members of the G. A. R. left parade at Robinson avenue and went to the Lincoln street entrance to the cemetery, where they unloaded, and formed in marching order. The members of the Spanish-American War Veterans, Sons of Veterans, and Boy Scouts turned out at Tracy street, and marched east to Lincoln street, falling in behind the G. A. R. at the Lincoln street entrance.

With martial step they marched into the cemetery, where they proceeded to decorate with wreaths of flowers the graves of the deceased heroes. Decoration of the graves was under the direction of W. H. Williams, adjutant of Bailey Post.

After the graves had been decorated all returned to the speaker's stand, where the Memorial Day exercises were held with Commander Milstead as master of ceremonies.

Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read by J. J. Davidson, a member of Bailey Post, which was followed by music.

Hon. Henry T. Bannon of this city was then introduced as the orator of the day. His address made a profound impression upon all who listened to it, and is given in full on this page.

WE MUST SO LIVE THAT THOSE KILLED IN THE 60'S DID NOT DIE IN VAIN

Courage of the True Kind Is Greatest Essential of America

SAYS HON. H. T. BANNON IN PATRIOTIC SPEECH

Hon. H. T. Bannon in his speech today at the cemetery, said:

More than one-half century ago Lincoln appealed to the American people in his address at Gettysburg, which is everywhere read this day, "that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain." This appeal will ring through the ages of American history and each generation will strive to the very utmost to preserve freedom and to perpetuate a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

To these honored dead no words of mine can pay a just and fitting tribute. The human mind is incapable of comprehending the blessings wrought by their sacrifices. But as time goes on, just as the setting sun sends forth the most beautiful and entrancing rays of light, so the line of these veterans, disappearing in the evening of life, reflects more and more forcefully the brilliancy of their achievement. We think more of the good work of the good citizen after he has gone than we did while he lived. As the veterans go our admiration for their part in the world's work is increased and when the last one answers the final roll call then will the American people come to a complete realization of the patriotism of the boys in blue who fought from '61 to '65. This is the veterans' day, and we have set it apart to commemorate lives not lived in vain and the dead who have not died in vain.

Must Look To The Morrow

This duty is not all. It is for the living to look to the morrow. It is for the living to maintain high the standard of the republic so that it may only be swept by the purest breezes and kissed by the brightest light. It is for us here today to so live our lives that they shall not have been in vain. Just as you veterans, acting with a common purpose, made the world better because you lived in it so can we, each in his own sphere leave some impress for good upon our community. An industrious, honest life, however humble it may have been, leaves its mark for those who follow.

Today America is fortunate in many ways. We have wronged no nation and we are not at war. We are at peace with the world and we shall keep at peace with the world just so long as we can have honor with peace. In his efforts to maintain our national honor abroad and to maintain our peace with the world the president of the United States has the active approval and cordial support of the country. With perfect confidence we depend upon him. As the clouds gathered and darkness came into our international life the American people turned to the president and asked, "Watchman, what of the night?" The watchman said, "The morning cometh."

Courage Is Essential

The courage which provokes a quarrel is often less than the courage necessary to avoid a quarrel and courage is just as necessary, just as essential, in our civil life as in our military life.

Courage led Columbus over uncharted seas to American shores; courage established the colony at Plymouth; courage wrote the Declaration of Independence; courage struck the fetters from the slaves; courage planted our flag in the isles of the sea and courage gave to the world every righteous judicial decision and every just and equal act of every law-giving body of the people. Courage made America what she is today, built her factories, improved her farms, opened her mines, constructed her railroads, wrote her literature, designed her art, and guided the varied paths of her wisdom. The need of this generation, this day and this hour, is courage. Courage to stand for the right and against the wrong regardless of any and all personal consequences. Boys and girls, it takes courage to leave your recreation for your recitation. Men and women, it takes courage to stand against wrongs directed against the people and for rights due all the people.

And so, today, as these old soldiers displayed courage on the field of battle, and as our forefathers displayed courage in shaping the destinies of this republic, let us meet every problem of this day and of this generation with a courage that is fearless of defeat. It is better to lose, believing you are right, than to win, knowing you are wrong; better pursue the beautiful path of a private career, doing exact justice as nearly as may be, than the broad avenue of a public career attained by the sacrifice of honor, courage and principle.

Patriotism Is A Christian Virtue Says Fr. Goebel

Rev. Father T. A. Goebel very appropriately chose Patriotism as the subject of his sermon at St. Mary's church Sunday. He said it was the most natural thing in the world to be a patriot that to love God, our neighbor and country is fulfilling the law, that patriotism was really a christian virtue when practiced in the proper way, that Americans in honoring the dead on Decoration day were following a beautiful custom and that it was really a recognition of the Catholic doctrine of Purgatory—the possibility of purging the wish that all might direct themselves to not only place flowers on the graves of the departed but also say a prayer for the repose of their souls and thus make it a National All Souls day as well.

Bankruptcy Petition Against Liquor Firm

The Cincinnati Enquirer, of local interest Sunday said:

"Jennie Rexinger, doing business under the firm name of Berachheim, Rexinger & Co., of Cincinnati, yesterday filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court against Max Mendel, doing business as the Mendel Liquor Company of Portsmouth, Ohio. The petitioner sets up a claim for $805 on a note which has been reduced to a judgment obtained in the Portsmouth Court of Common Pleas. She alleges that Mendel is insolvent and that within the past four months he committed an act of bankruptcy in failing to discharge a preference obtained through legal proceedings within five days of the sale of his property, which is to be sold on June 2.

Manly Church Holds Special Memorial Exercises Sunday

Members of the G. A. R., Women's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans and Spanish-American War Veterans occupied conspicuous places at the Manly M. E. church Sunday, where a special patriotic service had been arranged in their honor. The church was lastly adorned with the National colors. A large crowd attended the service.

Special music was furnished by the chorus choir and by the Manly M. E. church male quartette which sang, "Tenting Tonight On The Old Camp Ground." Rev. Walter T. Gilliland, the pastor, chose for his subject "The More Excellent Sacrifice." At the outset, he defined sacrifice as the giving up of something which could have been withheld. In the giving up of his life for his country, a man gave all, he said.

He then gave a brief resume of the history of the United States from the time of the Revolutionary War until the present day, a period which was filled with the history of sacrifices for love of country.

"The Republic was not finally established until 1865, when the Civil War was ended," said Rev. Gilliland, addressing the delegation of old soldiers who were seated in front pews of the church. The 2,600,000 men who were willing to make the sacrifice of their lives were not fighting for added territory or for personal gain, but for principle, he added.

Rev. Gilliland also praised the courage and chivalry displayed by the South, which rivaled that of the North, and expressed pleasure that all sectional feeling had disappeared, and that the people of the North and South were reunited under our flag.

In conclusion Rev. Gilliland made a strong appeal to those who had made the sacrifice to fight for their country to enlist under the banner of Jesus Christ and help fight his battles in a sinful world.

City Engineer Issues Statement On The Gallia Pike Controversy

City Engineer George Wilhelm has written the following protest concerning the Gallia pike controversy, which he requests The Times to publish:

Portsmouth, Ohio, May 31 1915. To Whom It May Concern.

In the Gallia pike controversy, whenever any public work, such as the building of Gallia pike, is contemplated, conditions should be studied, to the end that the best possible results may obtain. In the case in question it resolves itself into the matter of alignment and grades. The alignment and grades, as proposed to the city council, were the best to be had from an engineering standpoint and for efficiency. This body saw fit to accept the alignment, but ordered a change in the grade at the east end at the east corporation line, lowering the grade more than two feet below that proposed by the engineer.

The street committee of council met on the ground with the interested parties and after reviewing the question pro and con, ordered the change, giving as the main reason that there had been an agreement with the former administration officials to come to a certain elevation at this point. Administration officials have no power to make or change a grade or alignment of any street. The city council must do this by ordinance. The members of the street committee who recommended this grade to council have repeatedly stated to the writer, "We know you are right in this matter," but we must stand by the former officials, even though their ideas were not in accord with yours."

What will council do then, in the matter of the intake tunnel of the new water works? Will they accept the job when it is absolutely different from the kind of work that was contracted for, simply because it was a verbal agreement with officials who have no power (legally) to make or change a contract. There seems to be no recorded data of such change, and the fact that it was not put in as contracted for, came to council in the nature of a surprise.

I cannot believe that the grade of Gallia pike, as finally established by council, was the first grade. In the mind of the former engineer, from the fact that the grades of the new water works mains were laid by him and he gave stakes for their placement, and he left the impression with the contractor that there would be four feet of dirt over them when the new pike was built.

Now when we dig to the grade as established, we find the water pipes exposed and the tops of which will be within 1 foot of the bottom of the new paving brick when laid. When it is built in accordance with the grades shown on his plat (outlet at 66 feet) there would be four feet of dirt over the top of these pipes. Why, I ask, was it changed, making it necessary to cut four feet deeper, which change adds four feet to the height of the retaining wall and four feet to the excavation of the pike, which adds tremendously to the cost of the work, and which the other property owners will have to pay their share?

The agreement seems to have been another verbal one, as no record has ever been found, and as there is not even the scratch of a pen in the matter, it is no wonder that the parties to this agreement are not unanimous as to exactly what it provides for. The alignment of this particular street, as passed by council, provides a straight line from a point about 300 feet east of the Heinrich brick works clear to the east corporation line (and this is the only alignment and grades ever presented, council for this part of Gallia street for acceptance).

Now comes Bach and Snyder, who own the addition down in the low ground, and who have been the principal beneficiaries in the whole business. They now contend that the famous agreement contemplated an angle in this straight line. I do not know just what their reason for wanting this angle, but I do know that if it is put in, it will add about four feet to the southern end of a tier of lots they have purchased on the north side of Gallia pike, beginning at and running west from the corporation line. They will acquire that part of Gallia pike that will be abandoned when the new work is finished and that part of the street vacated will revert back to the original owners, and will have to dig so far back into the hill to get their full depth of lots 107 feet. My endeavor is to work no undue hardship on any man, and must protect as best I may the interests of the many. If this angle is put in it will forever mar the beauty of the street, but if put in at Plum street it will not only have the same effect but will encroach on all the property lying between Plum and Chestnut street, on the south side of Gallia.

The major portion of the work has been done on the line as established by council, including the wall, and to establish an angle will make the work look unsightly and "out of line," and my hope is that the change will not be ordered. The council, only, has this power, and if ordered, the work will have to be done in accordance with that order. My only purpose in this communication is to advise the public of the attitude of the present administration and that no undue criticism may attach to any member of it, so that we may be clear of any responsibility for changes that may be made, and that I have always, and do now, protest against.

GEO. S. WILHELM, City Engineer.

Early Mass

At a rising vote taken by the congregation of St. Mary's church Sunday morning, it was decided to hold early mass on Sundays during June at 6:30 and high mass at 8 o'clock, with vespers in the evening. After that month the hours for services will remain the same, but there will be two low masses instead of a high mass, the second mass to be followed immediately after with benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

FUN RAYS

NORWAY.

Oh it's hair off to the people of the Land of Midnight Sun, for they ought to be respected, "dash my eyes," by every one. "Come they never look for trouble and they make their life and Q. Did you ever read of Norway and the people in the north? It's a peaceful little nation and they have no use for war, although every blood Norwegian is a fighter to the core. If you took a trip to Norway you would soon learn to be fond of it, for you would find it a happy land of peace, not trip to a land of war, as the Norwegians would say. Where the maidens are real comely and the men are just and true, it's the place where even the city, jolly, tender, small, handsome, they're a happy lot of people, for the king and queen, and a better mannered nation can't be spotted anywhere. When they wanted independence they just bellowed to the world, "Though we're quiet, we're friends with Sweden, and their friends are the best of friends. They shouted, "Rah for Norway," not a king and said, "Glad!" Never cost a drop of blood to put their country on the map. It's the land whose Viking chiefs, tales held their own in days of yore. It's the land that gave us Ibsen, Nauman, Ureng, and many more. They're industrious and thrifty and the paupers there are few; it seems there's always something for an honest man to do. And marvels on the snow-shoes and the hockey skates and also are these people who the raindrops find it easy work to freeze. For a long time I could prattle, but a history will tell all about these blood Norwegians, who are doing very well. Oh you are surely got to land it to the Land of Midnight Sun, where they get along quite nicely without brandishing the gun. RAY I. HOFFMANN.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, ailments, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, O. Office Phone 60. Residence A-595.

Dear Dolly.—What would you do with a person who is always expecting a tip for everything he does? I am sure it's annoying as well as embarrassing.

DAVE.

I'd carry a pocket full of asparagus tips with me and give him one every time he acted like he wanted a tip.

Dear Dolly.—I am a young man of 25 and would like a little advice. I have been engaged to a very dear girl for a few months, but here lately she has been a great puzzle to me. Try as I will I can't understand her. Now Dolly are all girls riddles? She seems to care for me sometimes and other times she acts indifferent. Sometimes she is jolly and talkative while at other times she will sit and stare into space for 10 or 15 minutes without saying a word. Do you suppose she wants me to break the engagement? I would do anything to please her. Your advice is anxiously awaited.

ENGAGED MAN.

The man who said women want to be understood did not understand women. The last thing in the world that women want is to be understood—they glory in not being understood. I imagine if you would suggest to the young woman that you break the engagement because you are unable to understand her, she would be "understandable" for a few minutes at least. Did it ever occur to you that in the long pensive silences she may be thinking very hard about you? As life goes on, if you are congenial in the basic things, a real "understanding" will grow that will be above all the little subtleties and momentary differences.

Springfield, O., Dear Miss Wise

—As I have been reading quite a few of your answers in the Portsmouth paper, so I would like for you to answer and publish this question: When you are with a crowd of young folks and you are standing across from some young boy of about eighteen, and he winks at you what should you do? Does it mean anything wrong? How is my writing and spelling? BROWN EYES.

It doesn't mean anything for a boy to wink at a girl. However, a real nice boy doesn't do such things. If he does it any more give him the stony stare, or else tell him he mustn't wink at you. Sometimes a person's eyes are wobbly and they can't keep them still. Good.

Miss Dolly Wise.—What would be a good present to give a "Girl" for her birthday.

Give her a box of candy, a bouquet of flowers, or a book.

Dear Dolly.—I have a very bad habit of biting my nails. How can I cure myself? PANSY.

Nail biting can be cured by will power alone in older persons, as it comes from nervousness. With children dip the ends of the fingers in quinine or a little extract of quassia.

Dear Dolly.—I am a boy of 17 and am planning to give a birthday party on my eighteenth birthday. Which is the proper way to write invitations? And how long before should I send them? What kind of games or plays would be suitable? A BOY SCOUT.

Invitations reading something like this could be mailed about ten days or two weeks before the date of the party:

"Mr. John Blank requests the pleasure of Miss Marguerite Smith's company at a birthday party on Thursday evening, the fifth of June, at — Gallia street."

Parlor games and music, or guessing contests would be suitable. It would be great fun to have the scouts go through some of their stunts for the benefit of the girls and boys present who are not familiar with the life of a boy scout.

Dear Dolly.—I had a date with a boy and he didn't keep it. About a week afterward we met down town and he seemed very glad to see me. He walked back to work with me (it was May noon hour) and asked if he might call the following Wednesday night. I told him I was afraid not, and then he said he was going to "phone soon to see when he could come. I am positive that this boy forgot all about the date and even now does not realize what he did. He had called six or seven times before and had not disappointed me. What would you do, let him come again? I like him.

BROWN EYES.

You might give him another trial, but don't let him trifle with your affections. If he breaks another date, better drop him.

If any reader of this column can spare a few clothes, please phone me on No. 60. I have the name and address of a young mother who has four small children ranging from 4 to 8 years of age to support. It would be a real act of charity to help this woman. Clothes for either the mother or children would be appreciated.

Fine compliment to Em, wasn't it?

Spencer The Boss Hitter

In the first three games at Charleston which were grabbed handily by Portsmouth the Spencerites certainly took a healthy cut at the pill as practically the entire team has weighed in with splendid swatting averages. The Senatorial pitching staff offered no deceptive slants to the local swat artists as in the first three games 36 hits were nicked off their bats.

The boss slugger Sunday's game not included is Manager Spencer, who set a fast hitting pace for his gallant athletes. Here are the individual averages:

	AB	H	Pct
Spencer	14	6	.428
Sharrman	12	5	.416
McHenry	12	5	.416
Calon	13	5	.384

Dillhoeffer	14	3	.214
Jacobus	5	1	.200
Millis	13	2	.153
Ferguson	3	0	.000

The team's composite swatting average was .312. The team went to the bat 112 times and lined out 35 luscious drives. Some swatsmiths.

Sifted Through The Sporting Sieve

Fans in Pittsburgh are making quite a few decent wagers that Honus Wagner comes through this season with a batting average of over .300.

Sherwood Magee is lining the ball out with great vigor which means that the Boston Braves will soon begin to climb.

The race has tightened up nicely in the National, only a few games separating the leaders and the tailender. Should a runaway race take place several of the clubs would lose heavily.

Al H. Bridwell is temporarily doing bench duty for the St. Louis Feds. Vaughn has been sent to second and Johnson is playing short. Bridwell has been fielding spectacularly and will soon be back in the game.

It is being reported in baseball circles that Hugh Duffy, former National league star will soon sign a contract to manage the Buffalo Feds.

Outfielder Diltz pulled a good one on Pitcher Ferguson the other day when "Fergy" appeared at the park with his rah rah cap on. Embellished across the front of it were the letters "S and E."

"What do those letters stand for?" asked one of the players. Before Ferguson could give him an answer, Diltz said, "Why sleep and eat of course."

The newly formed Buckeye league is making a determined effort to be granted protection by the National Commission. This probably will not be done until the league gets rid of a few "out-laws."

Jawn McGraw says the Giants will be in the first division in two weeks. Well, they certainly will have to step along some to turn the trick, as first tier teams are playing consistent ball.

The Yankees were defeated by the Spiders at Willow park Sunday afternoon by a score of 9 to 3. The Spiders knocked the offerings of Ratliff to all corners of the field. Ratliff and Eimers worked for the losers and Meyers and Thimmes for the Spiders.

ther on tap fine crowds will attend the Memorial Day games in the Ohio State league today. Portsmouth is at home with Frankfort, Lexington plays in Ironton and Charleston is in Chillicothe.

An Eastern broker made a $200 wager Saturday that Philadelphia would beat out the Chicago Cubs this season.

Four straight from Charleston. Zowie! Bet Biddy Beers doesn't relish the idea of losing four in a row to Portsmouth. But such things will happen in the best of regulated baseball teams.

The Chillicothe Babes are certainly putting up a consistent brand of baseball. Manager Josh Devore has his gang of willing workers going along at top speed with no let up in sight.

Shortstop Doherty may soon join the Charleston Senators. He has wired his terms to Manager Beers.

Upon his arrival home Pitcher Ferguson was warmly congratulated on all sides on the magnificent exhibition of pitching he revealed to the awe-stricken Charleston fans. Any time a pitcher strikes out 15 batters he is certainly bowling along on high gear with a straight road ahead of him.

Over in Newport News there is a player who is sailing under the name of Bank. He evidently plays the game "safe."

Schedule Is Given Queer Twist

The Portsmouth team arrived home from Charleston today and began a four game series with the Frankfort team at Millbrook.

At the conclusion of this short tenancy of Millbrook the team will drop down to Lexington for the first clash with the Colts in their own parlor. Then by a funny twist of the schedule makers Portsmouth returns home to stage a four game series with the Chillicothe Babes, which stars on June 7. Then to and behold the team packs its bats, grabs a train and returns to the Blue Grass section to meet Frankfort at home.

Instead of the team going to Frankfort at the conclusion of the Lexington trip it hurdles back to the River City, plays four games and then departs for Frankfort. Evidently the schedule makers did not stop to figure the additional mileage this will cost the Portsmouth management. Then the Spencerites will return for the longest home series of the season, an even dozen battles in a row as follows:

Charleston, June 15, 16, 17, 18.
Ironton, June 19, 20, 21 and 22.
Frankfort, June 23, 24, 25 and 26.

Huntington Beats Local Pin Bouncers

A quintet of Huntington duck-pin artists invaded these sacred shores Saturday evening and triumphed to a frazzle a bunch of local bowlers at the Play House alleys, due in a large measure to the fact that two of the best players on the local team ducked the issue and hid themselves to the toll and lament, where they doubtless enjoyed themselves to the uttermost. The local team, which was hastily formed, took the first two games with rank one, having ahead of 55 pins when the last game was started. Huntington, however, pulled into high gear and when the pins quit falling the local lead had been wiped off the map and Huntington stood forth winner by a couple of dozen pins. The scores:

KIEGLER BEATS OLSON; CLAIMS CHAMPIONSHIP

Charles Kiegler is the light heavyweight champion wrestler of America. Kiegler brought the title to Portsmouth Saturday evening when he defeated Charles (Kid) Olson, of Indianapolis.

The toe hold, that made Gatch famous, proved its superiority over all other holds during the match as it was with two toe holds that Kiegler put the Housier kid to the mat.

Several times during the match Olson demonstrated his strength to the fair sized crowd by lifting Kiegler off his feet. Kiegler's science and fighting ability were more than Olson could stand. He showed signs of great pain when Kiegler made him give up both times with the toe hold.

The first fall went to Kiegler after 30 minutes of hard work. Olson came back in the second round and put Kiegler down in five minutes with a clutch hold. One minute before he was given the second fall Olson put Kiegler down with a body scissors but Referee Morgan failed to see it and Kiegler got away, only to be downed the next minute. Olson grabbed Morgan by the foot and was going to upset him for not keeping his eyes open.

Olson got a toe hold on Kiegler after fifteen minutes of the third round had passed and had Kiegler's shoulders with a fraction of an inch from the mat. By a quick jerk the local man got away from Olson and in turn got a hold on his opponent's left foot. The time of the last fall was 21 minutes.

In a preliminary Bob Blevins downed Dick Boyd in 24 minutes with a full Nelson hold. John Morgan was referee and George Holt timekeeper.

Some Classy Pitching This. Moore and Bellamy were engaged in a classy pitchers' duel for the first four innings of the East End-Athletics game Saturday at York park. By bunching hits in the fifth and seventh rounds the East Enders managed to get the big end of the score. Moore was steady throughout the game, keeping his six hits well scattered. Catcher Graf of the East End featured with the stick, getting three bingles in four trips to the plate. Fugitt and Newman made pretty one-hand stabs. The score:

Self-Inflicted Bullet Wound Causes Girl To Repent And She Begg Lover To Return

BY HITTING the ball hard and timely Portsmouth made it four straight from the Senators when they copped Sunday's game at Beaver Dam park by a score of 7 to 2. Spencer and Diltz slammed the ball over the fence for home runs. Neither of the teams had anything near the home plate until the fifth inning, when Caton, first up for the visitors, sent a single past Beers at short. Bush advanced him with a roller to Hudson, and he went to third on a wild pitch. McCull singled to left scoring Caton. Diltz perished on a fly to McKee, and McCull scored on Diltz's double to center.

Sims' single in the same frame started a rally which ended with the score tied. After Sims' hit, Beers sent a double into right field and Sims stayed at third. When Troutman lined to Bush he tried to double Beers, who was a little off second. The ball went bounding into left field, and Sims walked across. McCull tried to catch Beers napping off third and threw the ball away. Beers crossed the plate. The Senators never scored again in the other four times at bat, but in the very next inning the visitors sent across two more. Mills got a Texas leaguer over second and Manager Chester Spencer sent one over the right field wall.

In the eighth, Caton scored on a sacrifice fly after he was safe at third when Curtis dropped Beers' perfect throw. In the 9th a homer over the fence by Diltz, a pair of singles by Sharrman and Mills and a hot grounder to Troutman, who played the ball to Beers for the fourth out of Mills, let in their seventh run.

Elkhart, Ind.:—"I suffered for fourteen years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed, in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanative Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.

"If these lines will be of any benefit you have my permission to publish them."—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 405 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Scioto County Goes Back To It's Old Love--The Tenth

Back into the old Tenth district went Scioto county Saturday when the general assembly, as one of the closing acts of its long, drawn-out session, passed the congressional gerrymander bill. This county was divorced from its supposed Democratic sister counties and thrown back with Jackson, Lawrence and Gallia, its old Republican allies.

Vinton, another small Republican bulwark, was thrown in for a good measure. The Tenth district, as now constituted, consists of Adams, Pike, Scioto, Jackson, Lawrence, Gallia and Vinton. The Sixth district, to which Scioto belonged for a short period of two years, included Clermont, Brown, Highland, Pike, Adams and Scioto. Charles C. Kearns, a Republican from Clermont county, was elected last fall in the G. O. P. landslide, and is now serving his first term. Robert M. Switzer, Republican of Gallia, was elected in the Tenth, and by the action of the legislature, virtually becomes Scioto county's representative in the National House again. The Tenth now has a safe Republican majority, nothing short of a political upheaval making it possible for a Democrat to be elected.

Ross was put into the new Sixth, which included the three old counties of Clermont, Brown and Highland, and four new counties, Warrenton, Clinton, Fayette and Ross. The district into which Congressman Kearns is thrown is presumably Republican.

The gerrymander is planned to give the Republican 16 of the 22 districts, the third, fourth, ninth, thirteenth, fourteenth and twenty-first being Democratic. The twelfth is considered as doubtful, as is the fifteenth. In three districts, the fourth, thirteenth and fourteenth, sitting congressmen are thrown together and will have to fight each other for re-nomination.

It was only through the extraordinary efforts of Governor Frank B. Willis that the bill was passed, the narrowest of margins being encountered in each branch of the general assembly.

THREE POISONED FROM EATING ICE CREAM

Shortly after eating ice cream Sunday evening, Mrs. Della Ferguson and two children, Mildred, aged 11, and Margaret, aged 8, became seriously ill.

A physician was called and he found them suffering with ptomaine poisoning. Mrs. Ferguson was soon out of danger, but her two daughters were in a serious condition for several hours, as they ate heartily of the ice cream, which it is thought was tainted. The family recently moved here from Olive Hill, Ky., and reside on Ninth street.

Fell From Swing Into Deep Ravine

Oscar Martin, clerk at Walter McCarty's Waller street grocery, luckily escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon when he fell from a swing at John Joseph's Camp Vera, one mile above Sciotoville.

Martin was spending the day at the camp, which is one of the best along the river. About two o'clock he started to swing on the rope, which is fastened across a ravine. He fell from the rope, landing in the ravine on his back and shoulders. He was unconscious for five minutes and remained in a dazed condition for sometime after the arrival of Dr. Chellis Dawson, of Wheelersburg. The spot where he fell was the only one free from logs and stones. Had he fallen further up the ravine he would have struck a rock or log. As it was, his back was badly wrenched and his hips were bruised. In Lawwill and Edward Noel went after Martin and brought him home in the Lawwill automobile. Martin makes his home with his grandmother, Mrs. Lucinda Collins, of Fourteenth street.

It was in the same spot that Jose Carr was very seriously injured in a like manner three years ago.
